Just cut and paste this URL into your browser: <http://amzn.to/2cXZ9ff>This is Book 17 in the Donut Hole Cozy Mystery SeriesWhen Heather Shepherd discovers that a popular judge at Hillside's Archery competition has been murdered, she's alarmed. Heather soon finds out that the competition will be cancelled if the murderer isn't brought to justice – and that means Jung won't get his shot at winning. Heather must use that arrow-sharp wit and investigative skill to solve the crime, with the aid of her besties far and wide. Equipped with her desire to find the truth, Heather hurries to interview the grief-stricken widow. But, as ever, things aren't as clear as they could be: Geoff Lawless has taken to investigating in his spare time, there's a long list of suspects and the construction at Donut Delights has everyone reeling to catch up on orders. Heather has to choose her leads wisely, or she'll risk losing more than just her integrity while she juggles the demand for her newest creation, M&M Surprise Donuts. Everyone was having a good time at the Hillside Archery Competition waiting for Heather Shepherd's friend Jung to show the judges how good he was at the sport and just might possibly win. But the judges weren't on the field yet and people were wondering what the hold up was. Heather suddenly sees her husband, Detective Ryan Shepherd, appear on the field and she knew that this meant that a major problem was in the making. And it was a major problem. One of the judges, Kyle Henson, was found murdered, found in the locker room with a carbon arrow in his heart. The killer was obviously an archer but who? At first Heather was afraid that her friend Jung might be accused because he was falsely accused of a previous murder but there's no way he killed the judge. Luckily Jung isn't a suspect because luckily he was at Heather's bakery, Donut Delights, when the murder occurred. Heather now plans to take off her baker's hat and exchange it for her investigator's hat and find out who murdered the judge and ruined the competition for everyone. There is long list of suspects including the dead judge's wife who he was cheating on and rumor has it that she was cheating on him too. Or it could be the one of the competitors who was the favorite to win the contest and was trained by the judge years earlier. Or it might even be that suspicious looking man that Heather keeps seeing who drives a white Ford Fiesta. The murderer could be anyone and it isn't going to be easy for Heather to investigate. Her bakery is being expanded and the construction noise is deafening, she has a ton of online orders she and her crew have to get out, and her Private Investigator's test is coming up in a week and she wants to study more so she can pass it.
